

I am a Graduate student at USC doing my Masters in Computer science . I came across job posting for Web & Social Media Editor/IT Assistant. I am very much interested in being student assistant for web based projects. I have taken CSCI 571-Web Technology in my graduate course in current semester.

Before becoming a Trojan , I was working as software engineer at Motorola for 3 years. In Motorola I was consistently rated as Valued performer , and was awarded with 'Moment' for my active participation in 'Idea to Prototype' Technical symposiums. I believe I might be the ideal candidate for the student assistant position.

I have attached a link to one of my current project I am working on. This application is optimized for mobile devices where we can search tweets based on geographic location.
